STARTS FLIGHT ACROSS OCEAN.

Daring Balloonists Left Atlantic City, Saturday.

Blown from course and picked up in distress Tuesday.

The airship America which has been preparing for flight across the Atlantic ocean under the supervision of Walter Wellman, last Saturday morning, was taken out of the huge hangar in which it has been housed for months. The delicate operation of removing the 228 foot long gas bag, was performed without mishap. At 8.01 a. m., the great cigar shaped balloon went up in the air and started seaward. In two minutes it had disappeared in the dense fog which prevailed. What little wind that was blowing was from the west.

As the balloon rose, a cheer was given by about 1,000 persons whose faith in the Wellman enterprise had stood out against the attacks of persons who declared their belief that Wellman would never take the America off the ground. The aerial navigators waved their "good-bye" and climbed into the ear of the immense gas bag and floated off in the dense fog.

The trip was scheduled as a mere trial but the statement of Chief Engineer Melvin Vanman that "we don't come back until we have had a try at Europe" is believed to mean that the men will not return unless some accident befalls the ship or the craft is forced by adverse winds to come back.

Dense fog with little winds made the conditions perfect and the balloon was out of sight almost immediately. The six men on the airship are provided with provisions, mostly of the canned variety, sufficient to last them a month. The only means of cooking is a small oil stove.

Each man is provided with two uniforms, the one of khaki he wore when the airship started, and a much heavier one for use in cold weather if encountered. When the airship had sailed about 400 feet from the shore it disappeared in the fog.

It is estimated that the two engines which were working perfectly, were pushing the balloon through the air at the rate of 26 miles an hour. With Europe 3,000 miles away it can readily be calculated how long it will take to reach the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

Somewhere east of Nantucket Island, off the coast of Massachusetts, and approximately 200 miles from Atlantic City, its starting point, the airship signalled a wireless "all's well" and a good bye at 12.45 o'clock, Sunday afternoon and swung on up the coast through the fog. This message, the last of the day's wireless conversations, was received there by A. H. Glusman, the Marconi operator, who had been on the alert since dawn.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning, Glusman first came in touch with the distant dirigible. Then, although the wireless range of the craft is comparatively short, owing to necessarily limited power and antennae, the station was surprised to hear its call, "MCC," clearly and strongly followed by "W" the code signal of the airship.

LATER.

Following the receipt of the above message, nothing was heard from the ship and its crew until Tuesday, despite the fact that by means of the wireless, the ocean had been fairly combed in search of news. It had of course, been assumed that he had taken a northern course and it was in the zone of the contemplated course that search was made. It came as a surprise, therefore, when it was announced to the world on Tuesday that Wellman and his companions had been picked up by the steamer Forest, off the coast of North Carolina.

They left their craft only because it was in distress and blown so far from the line of transatlantic steamship travel that a continuance of the voyage with the British Isles as the objective point was hopeless. So, immediately aid by wireless, the difficult and dramatic transfer in the Trent was accomplished and the America was left to the fate of the winds.

The Trent sighted the airship about 1.30 a. m., and wireless communication was at once effected. It was learned that the airship was in distress and that the passengers sought rescue. This fact was communicated by the passengers.

LOCAL HISTORY.

Court Houses and Places of Records.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman.
Number 78.

IN SEVERAL PARTS—PART EIGHT.

March 1st, 1786, for a consideration of twenty pounds, Capt. Benjamin Larabee conveyed to certain persons, whose names are stated, "a certain piece of land, situated on the Neck where the town is now settled."

Capt. Larabee lived where Federal Jones Middle street in Portland, or near the point, but there was no Federal street then.

The site of the Larabee house is given as the starting point of the survey of the lot of which the title was then transferred, and the "gor" is now known as

where the soldiers' and sailors' monument is seen at this time.

From 1824 to the date of the dedication of the monument, the place was called "Market Square" because at the first named date a large building was erected for a market house with a hall in the second story which was called the "TOWN HALL" till March 26, 1832, when Portland adopted a city charter when the name of the hall was changed.

The building remained till the people decided by a popular vote that the lot might be used for the monument site, when the building was pulled down.

The object for which the "gor" was purchased in 1786 is not stated on the transfer paper, though it is apparent the real object was the erection of a defensive structure of some sort in case of an Indian or some other sort of an invasion, but there is no obtainable evidence it was improved by the parties making the purchase or by the town authorities or any other.

In 1713, a black cloud of war between England and France was seen, the meaning of which hereabouts was French and Indian invasion for Maine, New England and all the British Colonies.

Dec. 15th, of that year, Parson Smith records as follows:

lowering themselves into the life boat which they carried and then descending into the water from whence they were picked up by the Trent.

SPOFFORD—SESSIONS.

A very quiet home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Nancy J. Sessions on Hillside Avenue, Saturday evening, when Adamant J. Spofford of Hopdale, Mass., and Mrs. Nancy O. Sessions of South Paris, were united in marriage by Rev. Chester Gore Miller.

Mr. Spofford's boyhood home was in Milton Plantation and he went to Hopdale when a young man.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding supper was served, of which eleven partook. After supper a social hour was enjoyed and the guests departed, wishing them many happy years of wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Spofford will reside in Hopdale.

AUCTION.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my sincere thanks to my neighbors and friends, who assisted in many ways, and gave me their sympathy at the time of the untimely death of my wife, also to the minister, the church and the ladies of the church for the beautiful services for comforting words at the funeral.

ARTHUR L. MORGAN.

LATIMER-HARRIS WEDDING.

One of the Pretty Affairs of the Season.

The wedding festivities of the Latimer-Harris wedding, began at six o'clock on Tuesday evening with a family dinner party, composed of the relatives of the two families. Following this, at 7.30, Miss Blanche Harris descended the stairs on the arm of her father, Mr. Jas. K. Harris, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Rolfe's orchestra. She was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Harris. Two little flower girls, clothed in pure white, little Miss Elizabeth Eaton and Miss Gertrude Hawley, preceded the wedding party, forming an aisle with yellow and white ribbon ribbons to the altar, built between the two large windows in the parlor, at which waited Mr. Roy C. Latimer, attended by his brother, Mr. Homer Latimer. Rev. A. T. Craig of the Methodist church performed the ceremony, using the single ring service. At the close of the rite, the orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The parlor was beautifully decorated with southern smilax and yellow chrysanthemums, Mr. Dyer of Portland, having the decorations in charge.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white messaline over white silk, trimmed with embroidery and wore a veil fastened with lilacs of the valley and carried a bridal wreath, showered with bride's roses and lilacs of the valley. Miss Frances Harris looked most attractive in a gown of yellow crepe de chine with pearl trimmings and carried autumn leaves with one yellow rose.

The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a signet ring and to the flower girls was a gold bar pin each. The groom's gift to his best man was a scarf pin.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held. One hundred and fifty invitations had been issued and a large number were present. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. K. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Latimer. The entire lower portion of the house was decorated with chrysanthemums and southern smilax, making a most charming color scheme.

The large porch, running two thirds of the way around the house, trimmed with smilax and here and there Christ mas trees were placed together with the electric lights festooned in and out among the green, made a delightful place. This was especially given over to the young people. The ushers were Mr. Robert Harris of Lewiston, Mr. Ray Harris of Phillips Exeter, Mr. Chas. Latimer of Wilmington, Delaware and Mr. Homer Latimer of Wilmington, Delaware.

The dining room was a most inviting place. Caterer Foster of Portland, serving delicious refreshments. The color scheme, even to the refreshments, was yellow and white. The guests were invited to the dining room by Mrs. Theodore Hawley, Mrs. E. L. Cowan, Mrs. G. O. Eaton, Mrs. P. C. Lee, Mrs. Geo. Pettengill, Mrs. M. L. Griffin and Miss Elizabeth Pettengill. A large wedding cake was cut by the bride and served, and a great deal of fun was had in seeing which one would get the lucky piece.

Rolfe's Orchestra furnished music throughout the evening. The music with the flowers, the beautiful gowns of the ladies present, certainly made a scene not soon forgotten.

A little after ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Latimer left on their honeymoon to Paris unknown, vanishing by means of an automobile. The bride's going away gown was a tailored suit of brown with hat to match. After a short wedding journey they will reside in Hamilton, Ohio.

Among the set of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Latimer of Wilmington, Delaware, Mrs. Frank Foster of Pittsburg, Pa., Homer Latimer of Cleveland, Ohio, Chas. Latimer of Wilmington, Miss Persis Vose of Portland, Mr. Ray Harris of Phillips Exeter, Mrs. John D. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris of Lewiston.

Mrs. Latimer, although only having lived in Rumford about two years, by her bright and attractive manner has made many friends and will be greatly missed in social circles. Mr. Latimer is Capt. of the Black and Glass Machine Co. in Hamilton, Ohio and is highly esteemed by all who know him.

UNIVERSALIST FAIR,

One of the coming events in Rumford.

One of the coming events of the season is the fair to be given by the ladies of the Universalist Aid Society, on Nov. 9th and 10th in the McMenamin Hall. Every effort is being made to make this a great success and from what these ladies have done in the past, it is safe to predict that the fair will be successful in every way. The following is a list of the different committees which have the various booths in charge: executive committee, Mrs. H. L. Steinfeld, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Kennard and Howe. These ladies will have full charge of the decorating. The apron table will be under the care of Mesdames Atwood, Andrews, Chas. Brown and Osgood; fancy work table, Mrs. Kennard, Schanauer, Gates and Barber; food table, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Wiley; the household department, Mrs. Dowling and Mrs. Martin. A most interesting booth is to be the mystery booth under the direction of Mesdames E. W. Howe, R. E. Swain, H. A. Tozier and E. M. McCarty. A special effort is being made to make the tea table a most dainty and attractive point in the hall. This will be presided over by Mesdames Gates, Moore and McKenzie. One of the most popular booths of a fair is generally the refreshment booth and this will be under the charge of Mesdames Israelson, Sanders, Edwin, Stanhope and C. E. Howe. Appetizing refreshments and food of various kinds will be served during the entire fair and especially at supper time. Another table which is especially attractive to the children, and also to some that are not children, is the candy booth and this will be under the charge of the young people of the society, Misses Marguerite McKenzie, Norma Gates, Martha McGrillis, Della Rutherford and Lucile Martin.

There will be an entertainment the first night. The committee having this in charge are composed of Mesdames Rendell, Dickey and Abbott. Just what the entertainment will consist of has not yet been made known. Any ladies' name that has been omitted here, will be asked before the fair to serve on one or other of the booths.

METHODIST HARVEST FAIR

At Bethel, Oct. 19, a Success.

We voted for you, elected you, and a good lot of you came down to "take the chair." In fact, so many of you came that there was hardly a "pamper," a cabbage or a beet left to tell the tale. None of the cooked ones survived. Yet they freely and gladly sacrificed themselves to the public good, as did the candy and ice cracker. The aprons went home with their ready purchasers. The chairs and the tables were about all that remained after the feast and sale.

Uncle Sam should be proud of the cost of Yankee food set out at the long tables last Thursday evening and proved themselves true descendants of New England stern-descendants who had fast more of their inherited taste for old fashioned viands. We are glad that we voted for you, and we shall "continue you in office" as long as you are willing to serve and be served.

DAIRY INSTITUTE AT NO. WATERFORD.

A special dairy institute will be held at Bear Mountain Grange Hall, on Tuesday, October 25th, at 10.30 a. m. and 1.00 p. m. The speakers will include W. O. Henton, President, Maine Dairywomen's Association, H. O. Ball, Professor of Agronomy, or Geo. E. Simmons, Assistant Professor of Agronomy, University of Maine, F. H. Morse of Waterford, Oxford County Corresponding Secretary, Maine Dairywomen's Association, and C. W. Barber, Assistant Dairy Instructor. The subjects will include co-operative work, seed improvement, Association, Breeders' Association, Dairy Testing Association and also dairy farm crops and handling milk.

Exhibits of dairy butter and cheese are invited for scoring. A special prize of $25.00 for the best butter will be offered by the Waterford Salt Co. for the highest scoring butter salted with Waterford.

All people interested in the many phases of dairying are cordially invited to attend this meeting and join in the

CURRENT NEWS.

POPULOUS AMERICAN CITIES.

The five most populous cities in the United States, according to this year's census, are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston, in the same order as in 1900. The population of New York City is 4,766,883, a gain of 1,329,631 during the decade; the population of Chicago is 2,185,233, a gain of 486,703; that of Philadelphia is 1,549,003, a gain of 255,311; that of St. Louis is 687,029, a gain of 111,791; that of Boston is 670,585, a gain of 109,693. A preliminary bulletin of the Census Office shows an increasing tendency to the concentration of population in cities. Of 25 cities having each a population of more than 100,000 all but seven made a greater absolute increase in the last decade than in the previous ones; and in the aggregate these cities have now a population of 11,912,500, a gain of 2,710,018 during the decade.

OVER THE ALPS BY AEROPLANE.

George Chavez, a Peruvian aviator, achieved the before unattempted feat of crossing over the Alps from Switzerland to Italy by aeroplane September 23rd, but was fatally injured in his descent. He rose in his monoplane from the vicinity of Brigone, Switzerland, to a height of more than 3,000 feet, passed over the region of the Simplon Pass, and descended at Domodossola, Italy. He was within 15 feet of the ground, after a swift descent, when his monoplane was overturned by a gust of wind, and he was crushed under it. Both legs were broken, and he suffered other injuries, which caused his death.

New proceedings against the so called sugar trust have been instituted by the United States courts. They are independent of the criminal prosecutions, which resulted in several convictions. The new proceedings aim at the dissolution of the American Sugar Refining Company as a conspiracy to restrain of trade, and are similar to those undertaken against the Standard Oil Company and the American Tobacco Company, which are pending in the Supreme Court of the United States.

SENATOR DOLLIVER DEAD.

United States Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver died of dilation of the heart, caused by an attack of acute indigestion, at his residence in Portland, Me., at 7.30 o'clock Saturday night, while being robbed by an octopus physician. Senator Dolliver's death was unexpected by his relatives and close friends, who thought he had almost entirely recovered from the attack of indigestion with which he had been suffering for a week. He had been up all day and had made a trip from his residence down town. He told several of the men whom he met that he believed he had completely recovered from the indisposition which followed his trip through Wisconsin on a speechmaking tour for Senator La Follette.

PARIS TO BRUSSELS.

Henry Wynmalen, the Dutch aviator, holder of the world's championship altitude record, and M. Legagneux, the French aviator, each with a passenger, made a remarkable trip in biplanes Sunday from Paris to Brussels, in an attempt to win prizes aggregating $25,000 for a successful flight with passenger to Brussels and return. Wynmalen, after reaching the Belgian capital, left almost immediately on the return trip and arrived safely that evening in St. Quentin. Legagneux decided to stop for the night in Brussels and started for Paris Monday morning. The distance between the two points is about 175 miles as the crow flies and the distance between Brussels and St. Quentin approximately 80 miles. The daring Hollanders, therefore, covered about 255 miles with passenger. Wynmalen covered the distance to Brussels in five hours and 33 minutes. Legagneux, with only one stop, made it in five hours.

DEATH OF JULIA WARD HOWE.

After a useful life of 81 years, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe passed from this life to the higher, at Newport, R. I., last Monday. The remains will be taken to Boston, where the funeral will be held at the church of the Disciples today. Mrs. Howe, while perhaps best known as the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was the author of many other poems, of which she had published several volumes and of many prose works. She was the founder of the Woman's Journal, the woman's suffrage publication, and one of its most prolific contributors. Few women have lived so long and useful a life and to all seemed over the world.

When one speaks of the other fellow going into the air, it does not necessarily mean that he is an aviator.A recent decision as to a seat in a street car gives it to the man who gets it first rather than the man who sees it first.Chicago's halpin ordinance is in force, and one woman has been fined a dollar and costs for using a pin which protruded from her hat several inches, and which scratched a man's face during passage on a crowded street. The long halpin must go.

THE UPSET IN MAINE.

Not only will Senator Hale be retired, but his seat will be taken by a Democrat. Of the four seats in the House of Representatives, the Democrats carried two. Mr. Asher Hinds, who won a Republican nomination for Congress against the candidacy of Senator Hale's son, who was supported by the powerful party machine—was elected; whereas Mr. Hale, if he had been nominated would undoubtedly have been elected. The Maine voters knew exactly what they were about.
They were tired of the dominance of the old Republican machine.
They expressed their feelings in the best way the situation permitted. If now the Democratic legislature should fail to understand what the people meant, and should send a mere Democratic politician to Washington to succeed the distinguished and powerful Eugene Hale, there would be deep disgust; and at the end of his first term this Democrat would surely be replaced by a strong, clean-cut Republican from a state that has given the country a long line of eminent Republican statesmen—Review of Review.

SUCCESS FROM FAILURE.

Because Walter Wellman did not succeed in his first attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean in an airship, let us take care lest we feel ourselves into believing that such an attempt will never prove successful.Let it be remembered that Wellman is the first man to make the attempt, and he kept his craft in the air 71 1/2 hours and traveled about 1000 miles, abandoning the attempt with no loss of life. Not too bad a record for the first trial. The "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again" spirit that Wellman possesses is going to compel victory to perch upon his banner, yet, or, if not upon his, upon those of some other persistent air navigator.Let us see if we remember correctly, we have been informed that Wellman's first attempt at laying the cable across that same Atlantic was not successful. Wellman's first attempt at laying the cable would hardly be reckoned in the category of successes from a 20th century standpoint. Peary did not bring the North Pole home in his grip the first time he went after it, and that first automobile race that some of us witnessed at the State fair a decade ago was not the most haunting success imaginable.The year 1910 then far has wrought wonders in aerial navigation, and the future, unquestionably has as great surprises in store for the world in the way of inventions and accomplishments along this line as have been experienced in connection with the various developments touching communication, transportation, etc. during the past quarter of a century.Nearly five years have passed since the writer asserted that his faith in 20th century progress led him to believe that he would within ten years cross the Atlantic ocean in an airship. He is still confident. Those who are frustrated with the progress of invention during the next ten years will witness many wonderful suc-

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When
a Rumford Falls Citizen Shows You the Cure.Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?Dean's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Rumford Falls testimony.Otis W. Burgess, of Rumford Falls, Maine, says: "About five years ago I was attacked by severe pains in the small of my back and an ache through my kidneys. After I stooped, I could not straighten without assistance. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural and I had difficulty in voiding them. I became worse daily, lost my appetite and was subject to dizzy spells. Someone at last told me to try Dean's Kidney Pills and I proceeded to take them."For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.Remember the name—Dean's—and

THINK IT OVER

Would the ablest business men in the country have a bank account if there was no advantage or convenience in it? Would they have been able to reach their present commanding position if they had spent half their time worrying about the safety of the money they had made?

THE RUMFORD NATIONAL BANK

invites you to open an account as they did. The same advantages they found in so doing will ac-cure to you if you accept the invitation.THE RUMFORD

A small house in the rear of the Frank Smith house at Smith's Crossing, burned on Wednesday night during the high wind.

Mrs. O'Brien of Portland will meet all the ladies wishing to join the auxiliary to the Universalist church of the K. of P. Hall on Sunday, to organize the order.

P. C. Wells of Knox street, has left for California this week and is to be employed in the railroad work there and will move his family in a few weeks.

Mrs. Percy Roberts, stenographer to M. P. Abbott of the Maine Tel. & Tel. Company has proven herself a true sportsman, by shooting a deer last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts went to Madrid, hunting and while there Mrs. Roberts shot a fine deer.

One of the tragic events connected with the Supreme Judicial Court, occurred Monday p. m., when Asa Martin, a resident of Rumford Corner, dropped dead, after giving his evidence in a certain case. Mr. Martin was a man of about seventy years of age and not at very rugged health.

The Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church will have a Halloween party on Monday, the 31st, the eve of All Saints Day, and great preparations are being made to make this a merry time. All the solemn and mystic rites connected with this evening are to be performed and momentous questions decided.

One of the most beautiful and impressive christening services that was ever held at the Church of Our Father, took place last Sunday morning, when seven babies were consecrated to the Master, among whom were Bernice Hadley, Philip Coburn Hamblett, Adeline Rosella Dickey, Clara Martha Stebbins, Roxaline Jones Irish, Gould Osgood McIntyre and Olive Myra Ellett. The service was made very impressive by the pastor, Rev. Elliott Bates Barber and after the christening each baby was presented with a penny to hold in its tiny hand.

Dr. and Mrs. E. M. McCarty came near having a very serious accident last Thursday, while returning from a package, where they had been hunting. A part of the gear of the automobile broke, leaving the machine unmanageable, and causing it to be buried over a bank, completely overturning the car and throwing the Doctor, Mrs. McCarty and their guide out. Mrs. McCarty was left pinned under the car but a stone protruded in such a way as to lift the car enough so as not to crush her. Dr. McCarty and the guide picked themselves up, although feeling considerably bruised and hastened to the aid of Mrs. McCarty, who had lost consciousness. It was found upon examination that none of the three had received serious injuries, Mrs. McCarty's being the most serious, and that was a cracked rib.

M. H. Blackwell of Bath, was in town Monday, on business.

Miss Alma Curtis spent Sunday with her parents in Peru.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Towle spent Sunday with relatives in Dixfield.

Mrs. Geo. Gates returned Thursday from a few days' visit in Portland.

Sherman Tribou of Wollaston, Mass. has been the guest of his brother, Chas. Tribou for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brown went Tuesday to spend a few days as the guests of friends in Portland.

Miss Judith Thomas returned Monday from her vacation of two weeks, spent in Portland and vicinity.

Mrs. H. B. Fuller of Alton, Mass., has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Chas. E. Howe for the past week.

Miss Lillian Rollins was on the sick list for a few days last week, and was unable to attend to her school duties.

Miss Josephine Tribou spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tribou, returning to Auburn, Monday.

Miss Abbie Johnson and her mother are visiting relatives in Manchester, N. H. Mrs. Johnson is recovering from an illness.

Word received from Miss Mattie Brooks of Brewer, Me., reports that she is slowly gaining from her recent illness of typhoid fever.

On Wednesday, at the residence of Rev. E. B. Barber, Mr. Ralph Marshall Stone and Miss Mary Goodwin Abbott were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Mr. Webber of the Livermore Falls Universalist church has resigned his pastorate there and has become associated with the McKean's Mercantile Co., and will have charge of the Madison store.

Mrs. Nettie Hawkes is spending the week at her old home in Westbrook and while there will attend the Universalist Sunday School Convention, as a delegate from the Church of our Father.

Mr. D. Gould McIntyre of Wilmington, Delaware, arrived Saturday to join his family, Mrs. McIntyre and son, Gould Osgood, who have been spending the summer with Mrs. McIntyre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Osgood.

The annual election of officers in the Y. P. C. U. will take place at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Barber on Franklin street, Monday evening, October 24th. It is hoped that a goodly number of members will be present. A social will be enjoyed after the business of the evening is transacted.

Next Sunday the Methodist Society will observe as "Bible Sunday" and the morning service will be devoted to elderly people, especially and teams will be sent after all those unable to walk. In the evening a harvest concert will be given. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend these services.

At the Universalist church, Sunday morning at 10:30, worship with sermon by the pastor, Rev. Elliott Bates Barber, subject, "We rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ by whom we have received redemption." Sunday School at 12 o'clock, Y. P. C. U. at 7:15. Topic, "Our Pleasure and Our Christmas Duty. Everybody welcome to all these services."

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Crosby Lee gave an informal reception in honor of Miss Blanche Harris and Mr. Roy Lattimer, on Thursday evening at the rectory. About twenty-five or thirty friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Lee received, with Miss Harris and Mr. Lattimer, and Mrs. John Neal and Mrs. Wesley Clark served sherbet and cake in the dining room. A most delightful time was enjoyed.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of Bethel is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. P. Lyon for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Latham and young son, returned the last of the week from a visit spent with relatives in Boston and Providence.

A most interesting masquerade ball was held at Howard Opera House, Mexico, on Thursday night. About seventy couples went on the grand march. A great deal of fun was evinced in trying to find out who masked couples were. The gallery was crowded to its utmost capacity. An order of fifteen dances was enjoyed and just before intermission all of the masked couples were lined up, the ladies on one side of the hall and the men on the other, then the judges proceeded to select the best impersonations. The following were chosen: Mr. Pauquet, impersonating the devil; Mr. Brown impersonating a clown; Miss McGinis, impersonating a cowboy and Miss Hazel Lovejoy, impersonating a gypsy girl. Each of these received a trifling prize as a souvenir of the occasion. The opera house orchestra furnished music and a very jolly time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Martin L. Griffin entertained a dinner party at Hotel Rumford, on Saturday night in honor of Miss Blanche Harris and Mr. Roy C. Lattimer. The private dining room of the hotel was used, the decorations were of pink and white, a large candelabra in the center of the table with pink shades, and candles on either of the four corners of the table with the same delicate tint of shades, shed a soft and mellow light over the whole room. At the place of each guest was a bunch of pink carnations, at Miss Harris' place was a large bunch of pure white carnations tied with white ribbons. An elaborate menu was served, after which the party were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Griffin on the corner of Franklin and Knox streets, where the rest of the evening was spent in bridge. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pettigill, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. K. Harris, Mrs. Frank Foster of Pittsburg, Pa., and Miss Blanche Harris and Mr. Roy C. Lattimer.

MEXICO.

The fair, which was to be given by the Baptist Working Band, Oct. 23 and 24, has been postponed on account of the union services which are being held. The exact date of the fair, which will probably be held next month, will be announced later.

The Feathered Friend.
At earlier the old man was discovered on a park bench perusing a book. "Mamma," said the small sparrow, who had not yet had his breakfast, "here's our opportunity to explore the early dawn."

"What early dawn?" queried the mother bird.

"Why, that bookworm," twittered the hungry bird.

"You borrowed some of your eye-glasses word for word?"

"Yes," replied the hawk author, "you can't please people. If I had changed the prepositional I would have been criticized for misquoting."

HOLT-STOWELL.

A very pretty home wedding occurred Tuesday, Oct. 11th, at 10 a. m. at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Newton R. Stowell, when their daughter, Mary Stanley, was united in marriage to Thomas Paine Holt, son of George Holt of this place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Gaskin, pastor of the Universalist church, and was very impressive, the single ring service being used. Several guests, intimate friends of both parties, besides the immediate relatives of both bride and groom, were present. The halls and parlors were effectively and tastefully decorated with evergreen and white clematis. Separating the parlors were bands of white satin ribbon, tied in the center by a double bow knot. The wedding march was played by Elina Edmunds.

George Stowell, a brother of the bride acted as best man. The first of the bridal party to enter were the ushers, Arthur Stowell, brother of the bride and Charles Russell, a brother in law, who proceeded to the center of room, uniting the bows of ribbon which fell gracefully aside, letting the remaining party advance. Next came the matrons of honor, Mrs. Isabel Russell, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Lila Stowell, a sister in law, followed by Miss Mabel Haskell Gates and Marie Kirk Stowell who stood behind the bride. The bride then entered leaning upon the arm of her father, who gave her away. She looked very beautiful in her gown

Healthy, Happy Childhood

Look to the welfare of the children! See that little common ailments like constipation or indigestion don't make them peevish, irritable and sickly. Happiness is your child's birthright—don't rob them of it by neglect.

TRUE'S ELIXIR is childhood's friend. It makes the stomach and digestion healthy and active. It helps the circulation of pure red blood and expels that poisonous foe of childhood—WORMS.

TRUE'S ELIXIR will benefit you also. Nothing like it to cure an aching head or steady tired nerves. It's been a standard remedy for three generations—make it your own family remedy for thousands of others have done. Your druggist has it—ask him.

TRUE'S ELIXIR

TURTLE MEETS OLD FRIEND.

George Tom of Me. Who Dined "1888" on Me. Shell.

Although a large turtle and Herbert Throckmorton of Upper Montclair had not seen each other for twenty-two years, the turtle, when it met Mr. Throckmorton, recognized him and showed his affection. In the meanwhile Mr. Throckmorton had grown from a boy to a man. The turtle had increased in size from a smallish business to a twenty-pound candidate for the soup pot.

The Royal Law.

Grace worth it in being, not seeming. In doing each day that goes by. Some little good—not in dreaming. Of great things to do by and by. For whatever men say in their blindness. And spite of the fancies of youth. There's nothing so kindly as kindness. And nothing so royal as truth.

Start a Bank Account.

A business woman whose experience has been long and successful said to me the other day: "If I were asked to give the best advice I could think of for young women who are earning their own living, or who have the cares and expenses of a household to look after, and if I had to confine myself to just four words, I should say: 'Start a bank account.' It is an easy matter to do so nowadays, when both the savings banks and other offer women every possible convenience and inducement. Besides, it is a good thing to do for several reasons. It fosters a feeling of independence and develops business-like habits, two essentials for a successful business woman. Then, too, it is a convenient and desirable thing to pay bills by means of checks where it is possible to do so. It preserves a record of the transaction, and frequently prevents annoyances and mistakes. To my way of thinking, a bank account, even though it be a small one, should be looked upon as a necessity rather than a luxury by every woman who has business affairs of any consequence whatever."—Democrat's.

A Word as to Debt.

It is astonishing how, when once begun, the habit of debt grows upon people and how accustomed they become to it. As it is one of the greatest enemies to peace and comfort, it should be guarded against very carefully and eradicated as a real evil. Of course, we all know there are times when it is absolutely unavoidable to incur debt. The absolute necessities of life may be needed and no ready money to pay them. Then it is to a certain extent justifiable to procure that which is needed, taking care, however, to keep strictly within that requirement, and also with the determination to pay off all scores before running into further expense. But there are not the cases which we are thinking of just now. When the bills come in after a great length of time their magnitude is often a cause of very great surprise. Errors cannot then well be rectified, for it is next to impossible in December to remember how many legs of mutton were consumed in July, or if two pairs of gloves and four yards of ribbon were or were not purchased. To go into debt for luxuries and what are not absolute necessities is simply dishonesty, especially if you know, as so many do, that it will be impossible to pay for them in the long run. "Out of debt, out of danger," is the old saying, and it is a very true one. Better a thousand times pluck and strive, exercise self-control, and go without what you desire, than to go into debt. There is freedom and peace in paying your way, which adds much to the happiness of life.

To a Young Couple.

Each one of you has certain wants of food, clothing, shelter, and other necessities of life, and, if you have good common sense, these individual wants can be supplied just as cheaply together as if you lived apart. The strain will come when you set up a home of your own, for a very small and plainly furnished habitation that you can call yours is preferable to more stylish quarters in a boarding house or "family hotel." True love and good common sense can be thoroughly happy in small rooms, and on cheap carpets, and over a frugal table. A vast many of what we call necessities are really superfluous. You can do without them. And if procuring them runs you into the slavery of debt, then they become sinful indulgences. Count your pennies carefully: it is the small leaks that count.

If from the weekly allowance, which should be allowed the wife each week, even though it be small, a little may occasionally be saved, and some arrangement, back or necessary be purchased, much pleasure is derived from its use by the whole family and in time to come the sight of articles obtained in this way will bring pleasant memories. If in later years, one is fortunate enough to have a large commodious house with beautiful furnishings, we find it in saying that you will not say it as more or take greater pride in it than you will in your humble little first home.

Intemperance is the sin and curse of the times. We are a national duty as Bible readings: if it requires a plain coat, then wear a plain character that always looks well; and however plain be your wife's dress, she will always look sweet in your eyes. What need you care about that "great brute beast, the public?" Be independent. Don't be a slave to appearances. Abraham Lincoln when a young man, brought nothing into Springfield except what he carried in a carpet bag; when he left Springfield, it was for the presidential mansion. Hard toil and frugality were a part of his education. May God send more of the Lincoln courage into our young men.

LOCAL HISTORY.

"The General Court Committee are fixing the places for the 'Block House' from Marblehead to Berwick—sixty three further east. A sum of twelve hundred and eighty pounds was appropriated by the General Court for defense of the Eastern line."

Of this sum one hundred thirty-four pounds was set apart for the erection of a place of defense for the rear of the hamlet of Palmonth, now Portland.

The timber house then erected for defense, was 15x33 feet, one story, which was placed in about the center of the lot which is much larger today than the original transfer—made so by trespassing upon the northerly side line of Middle street, which crowded the travel over onto the lot upon the opposite side, gaining possession on the southerly side by unnoted occupancy.

War was declared by France against England, March 15, 1744, and June 2nd of that year, a war proclamation was promulgated at Boston by the colonies. Parson Smith's diary is replete with allusions to what transpired. The morals of the people were very low. The parson says: "There is no standard; every one is getting what he can." This seems to be the situation politically today, if not otherwise.

Indians in warlike attire were all about Portland, killing and burning. June 13th, 1740, the parson says: "The neighborhood are now building a block house near Mr. Larrabee's, for common defense."

This was the 15x33 timber house to which I have alluded. October 15th, 1753, the grantees of the "goose" transferred the title with the "block house" thereon standing to the County of York, for the sole use, benefit and behoof of the county for a prison house."

As the whole of the Province of Maine at that time was but one county, the block house of 1744 at Portland, became the jail or prison house of the entire Province of Maine. When the Province, or York County, which comprised the whole Province was divided in 1780 as has been stated then the timber house or jail became the property of Cumberland County, where the criminals were confined, and the remaining part of the province that continued and now perpetuates the ancient name of York, and the new county of Lincoln were obliged to provide new places of confinement. Then cases of confinement for those who could not or would not pay their debts, were numerous, but imprisonment was at the expense of those who required the jail confinement and disgrace. So when creditors who are not familiar with "ways that are dark" of the long ago come in contact with statements as to the size of the jail yard they may know it had reference to poor debtors who were confined for nonpayment of what was claimed to be just dues. Some of the reports now in existence of the hardships endured in prison life, not in foreign lands, but among our very ancestors excite a feeling of horror, when read and compared with the present.

Adjacent, or it may have been in the timber jail of the period, the jailer had his family quarters. His pay was small, as was that of every one at that time, and so he opened up and put out an innkeeper's sign. Portland was then a place of little thing.

The first meeting of Cumberland County Court of Sessions, composed of seven justices of the peace, was held Dec. 23d, 1769, when the "Court" appointed the Register of Deeds, ordered the drawing of the grand jury names and performed other acts of a judicial character that appear queer in some cases when viewed from a standpoint of the present—such as imposing a fine of five shillings with cost of court for neglect to attend a religious meeting in the course of duty days; and there are scores of this sort on record in Cumberland County.

Capt. William Pate, with a family, resided at Woodlands, near a Portland suburb; his son Capt. Greenfield Pate, born May, 1738, married and settled at Fairbanks, Newbury, where he erected a large residence. He was a mariner, and commanded his own vessel which was a sloop. After sailing in this a week the wind and tide served right and he weighed anchor and went out in a deep sea voyage. Three months later, upon his return, he was arrested, taken before a court and fined for violating the Sunday law, which caused

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. Barber, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 88 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, nervousness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. To-day I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1880 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. W. K. HOUSH, 7 East 10th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female illness, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, period pains, backache, etc.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

lot of wild land joining the salt water, that "an eye had not seen" in the town of Freeport, took down his residence, loaded it upon rollers and rebuilt it where it may now be found. He died in that town, Sept. 29, 1787.

Adjacent to his ancient appearing residence, two story front with one story back may be seen the little family burying lot.

Of him the "Eastern Herald and Gazette of Maine," after inserting a death notice, remarks, "Much lamented by his acquaintances and friends." He was a brother to Capt. William Pate, Jr., who kept the diary while a prisoner in Quebec from May 1747 to August 1747, which constitutes the basis of much concerning the French and English war of that period of which every lover of local history ought to be interested. Anything like a complete history of the Pate family would fill several columns in the Citizen. I pass the situation herewith in the long ago relative to Sunday observance with the question propounded in view of auto riding—Are our people better to day than they were in 1781 when Capt. Pate sailed his sloop?

At the May meeting of 1781 the Cumberland County Court of Sessions—Ordered the raising of forty pounds "to be plaster the upper room in the rear house, to make a lobby in the room and stairs to the left, to ground pit and repair the elapments, to make a lobby and window below stairs and provide three cartages for the west end and five cushions and obtain books for court records."

This has reference to the first court house provided for Cumberland county, made from the old meeting house that stood, as I have noticed it on the north westerly corner of the present corner of Middle and India streets.

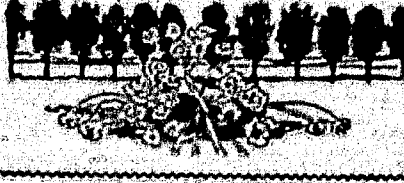

October term of court, 1771, ordered "an inquiry be made into the ownership of the land upon which the court house stands."

April term, 1772, ordered that four hundred pounds be appropriated for a court house, but there is no evidence this amount was assessed upon the several towns.

HORTICULTURE

EXTENSION FOR FRUIT LADDER.

It Will Prove Handy in Use on High Branched Trees.

To extend a ladder for picking fruit or trimming trees use a piece of 2x4 pine of any desired length. At one end nail a piece three inches wide, as long as the width of the ladder, and as thick as the diameter of the rungs. Across the middle of this cleat nail a piece of 1x3 about five inches long.

Details of the Extension.

This forms a hook to catch over the third rung as seen at A. B is the same as A except it has a button which will turn over the first rung. The cleats stiffen the pole sideways with the ladder. This can be removed in an instant by turning the button, and laid aside for another year.

TOMATOES FOR CANNING.

Suggestions for the Extensive Raising of the Vegetable.

I planted one ounce of tomato seed in our garden the middle of last March in open ground and I think every seed came up. The young plants were looking well, but were killed down by a frost the first of April. By the last of the month they had all come out again and were large enough to set out, and I planted the 8,000 plants which grew from the ounce of seed, writes a correspondent of Farm and Home. The weather being favorable, almost every plant lived.

The land on which they were planted was very poor and sandy, with a clay subsoil. I first broke it deep in March with a one-horse turn plow, turning under a lot of weeds and grass. About two weeks before setting out the plants I laid out rows with an eight-inch shovel and put in commercial fertilizer analyzing two per cent. nitrogen; ten per cent. phosphoric acid and three per cent. potash, at the rate of 600 pounds per acre. I covered this fertilizer by running over the rows once with two five-hack scooters on a double stock, which ridged the soil level with the surface. The rows were three feet apart and the plants were set two feet in the row.

The cultivation was begun as soon as the plants were firmly settled in the soil and they were given three plowings and two hoeings. The last plowing was given about the time the tomatoes began to form freely on the plants. I made a mistake by not giving them four plowings instead of three and by not applying nitrate of soda at the rate of 200 pounds per acre at the last plowing. By failing to do this the plants stopped growing, most of the leaves dropped off and over half the tomatoes were scalded by the hot sun, rendering them unfit for canning. We got over 100 two-pound cans of tomatoes from this patch of about one-fourth acre.

Legumes in the Garden.

We hear a great deal about growing legumes in the fields, so that the soil can be plowed under and the land enriched with nitrogen. In the garden the growing of legumes for this purpose is as profitable as elsewhere. The peas or beans may be rotated with other crops as to location and so made to do service in turn on all parts of the garden. If beans were grown on one plot last year, grow some plant not a legume on that plot this year. These legumes make good roots and have a heavy foliage, say "Farmers' Review." They shade the ground and help the soil organisms to develop in that way, and one of the soil organisms that are particularly adapted to the roots of legumes are enabled to collect very large quantities of nitrogen from the air. A large part of this nitrogen is in the leaves, roots and stems, which rot and are then washed back into the soil.

Remarkable Strawberry Harvest.

One of the most remarkable strawberry records comes from the patch of Oliver Black, Pittsburg, Pa., whose plants averaged a little more than one quart of berries each. He writes: "Last season we sold 2,000 quarts of berries from the 3,000 transplanted plants. The highest price received was 15 cents a quart, the lowest eight cents. The average was ten cents. This season all the berries were sold."

ABNER CHASE LIBBY.

Abner Chase Libby, an old and much respected and beloved former resident of Locke Mills, Greenwood, Maine, died at the home of his son, Jesse F. Libby in Gorham, N. H., on Sunday, October 9, 1910.

The deceased was the son of Stephen and Sarah (Chase) Libby and was born in Limerick, Me., April 23, 1825, where he was reared and educated in the village schools and at Limerick Academy. When a young man he taught school for a short time and afterwards learned the trades of carpenter and painter.

In 1842 he married Lucy Spofford Felt, daughter of Artemus and Desire Harlow (Stevens) Felt. Three children were born of this union, only one of whom now survives, Jesse F., a prominent lawyer of the New Hampshire bar located at Gorham, N. H.

After his marriage he lived in Limerick a short time and then removed to Portland, Maine, where he was employed as a clerk in the fruit store of Kidder & Witham for about a year. In 1851, or thereabouts, he went to Locke Mills, where he and his companion established their home in which they lived continuously for over half a century, until the death of his wife on January 7, 1909, after which he went to live with his son at Gorham, N. H.

After moving to Locke Mills he followed his trades for a number of years, but later engaged in buying and shipping country produce to the Portland and Boston markets.

At about the close of the Civil War he was treasurer of the town of Greenwood for one or more years and for about 25 years was town clerk. He was also postmaster at Locke Mills during President Cleveland's administration. In politics he was a life long Democrat, but at the time of the Civil War he was loyal to the Union and offered his services to the cause of his country but the physical defect which rendered him unsuitable for the rigors of army life and handicaps.

He was a Mason and Odd Fellow and was an earnest, faithful and helpful member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and was secretary of that church at Locke Mills for many years. He was a kind, loving and self sacrificing husband and father, a good neighbor, a kind friend and a genial and companionable man. Unostentatious of manner, he did not seek the applause of men but was content to well and patiently do whatever work came to his hand to perform. His patient and kindly nature was beautifully illustrated in the loving and tender care which he took of his beloved companion during the last years of her feeble old age, even though he himself was weighed down with the burdens of long years. Always thoughtful and solicitous of the welfare of others, his gentle heart and genial disposition merited and won the love and respect of all his neighbors and acquaintances, and of none more than of those who had known him intimately for the more than a half century that he had resided among them, and his last years were cheered and comforted by the many expressions of love and respect which were so freely and sincerely accorded him.

About two months after he went to live with his son at Gorham, N. H., he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered, but for the year and a half of his illness he was tenderly cared for by his son and wife who were richly repaid for all the care bestowed upon him by his frequent expression of love and appreciation of all that was done for him. To do for one of such gentleness for one so patient and considerate of others was only a pleasure and not a burden.

The funeral was held at the church at Locke Mills, Rev. Mr. Daughart of Bethel, officiating. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and he was laid to rest in the family lot in the village cemetery amidst expressions of love and respect, sanctified by the tears of sincere sorrow.

A gentle hearted, kindly man has gone. His sphere of life's action was not wide; he achieved no great and notable deeds; but he left love and not bitterness in the hearts of men and the sweet memory of his quiet, uncomplaining life and his thoughtful, considerate consideration for others will long remain in the hearts of all who knew him.

Into the silent land, into his peaceful rest, Has gone my friend and this, No more by caring care nor weary pain oppressed, Sleep on, O friend of mine, The pine trees bend, by gentle winds caressed, Above thy silent breast.

The weary heart is still, but eyes beat on, So sad, O friend of mine, For one sweet chord is lost, one measure gone, From life's great song divine, And only memories now in us remain Of that sweet, silent strain.

LITERARY REMINISCENCE.

Johnson—I had a conversation once, when I was a boy, with Longson, the great poet, whose works you are so fond of.

Johnson—Indeed! That is something to remember. What did you say, what did he say, and how did he appear? Do tell me all about it.

Johnson—Well, as near as I can remember, I didn't say anything.

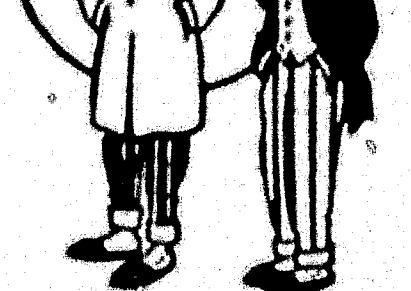

Johnson—Indeed! I suppose.

Johnson—Well, you might call it that. It is difficult to describe his appearance, although I distinctly recall that it was very sudden it was not expecting him, and he displayed remarkable energy.

Johnson—Placed his hand kindly on your head?

Johnson—No, no, he gave a good, swift drive with his foot, and tolled, "Get out of here!" He caught me in his cherry tree—Judge.

IT WAS TIME HE LEARNED IT.

Peruna the Only Medicine that Ever Entered this Home

I Suffered with Kidney Trouble.
Mr. Robert H. Norris, 123 East 11th St., East Oakland, Cal., writes:
"We have never had any other medicine but Peruna in our home since we have been married."
"I suffered with kidney and bladder trouble, but two months' treatment with Peruna made me a well and strong man."
"My wife felt weak and was easily tired and was also troubled with various pains, but since she took Peruna she is well and strong."
"We are both very grateful to you and gladly do we give this unsolicited testimonial, feeling that it is the least we can do in return for what Peruna has done for us."

Cataract Entirely Relieved.
Mr. Ira Henney, Fairfield, Freestone Co., Texas, writes:
"I am completely cured of all symptoms of cataract."
"I can truly say that Peruna is the best medicine I ever saw. I will always recommend Peruna to all my friends, for cataract."

Cataract of Head.
Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio, writes:
"My daughter Alice, after taking three bottles of your Peruna, is entirely cured of cataract of the head of two years' standing. We recommend Peruna to anybody who has cataract."
"Peruna is manufactured by the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio."

Why He Liked It.
Mrs. Jawback—Which photograph of my mother do you like best?
Mrs. Jawback—This one, by all means.
Mrs. Jawback—Why, that's not a very good likeness.
Mr. Jawback—No, but it shows her in a goingaway gown.—Cleveland Leader.

Undoubtedly.
"Do you play any instrument, Mr. Jimp?"
"Yes, I'm a cornetist."
"And your sister?"
"She's a pianist."
"Does your mother play?"
"She's a sitherist."
"And your father?"
"He's a pessimist."—Tit-Bits.

Strange Historical Fact.
"My boy, all women are alike. Don't trust any one of them."
"But father, things are different from when you were a boy. All the women you knew are passed."
"Certainly, my son, but when you are as old as I am, you will find that they've all come back again."—Life.

A Modern Success.

Levelhead—He hasn't.—N. Y. Weekly.

Explained.
"Why," asked the Athenian youth, "do you permit yourself to be thus teased by Xantippe?"
"I suppose," answered Socrates, "it's because I was born with a taste for philosophy instead of with an artistic temperament."—Washington Star.

Always Busy.
"What kind of a statesman is Bismarck?"
"One of those who go around before election telling how people are going to vote and who are equally busy after election explaining why they didn't."—Washington Star.

Financially Informed.
"Are you sure your son-in-law knows the value of a dollar?"
"Yes," answered Mr. Camron; "the data shows exactly what a dollar is worth—in European money."—Washington Star.

Wounded Pride.
"What makes you wear a monocle?"
"You practicing?" answered Mr. Camron. "The next time you lifted some law cases around I want to see if I can't look supercilious."—Washington Star.

Instructive.
"Your friend is a literary authority. Is he?"
"Yes, he has ever done any constructive work."
"No, destructive. He's a book reviewer."—Chicago Tribune.
